Thinking Out Loud

(By H. M. L.)

A nurse, sustaining injuries which incapacitate her from earning her living, has been awarded by Judge Raglan Tuttle total damages of $4,540 against the City of Grass Valley. For weeks the hole in the Main street pavement, left as a relic of workmen who tapped a water main, had been unrepaired. It could have been repaired anytime for $10 worth of labor and paving material. Costly negligence. Many a town in California pays through the nose for just such municipal carelessness. Sometimes it is broken sidewalks, sometimes a ditch dug across a street for gas or water mains, and sometimes an obstruction left without warning lantern or flag.

The decision of Judge Tuttle should be a warning to many another California municipality, and among them, Nevada City. While the Chief of Police is busily tagging automobiles for overtime parking, and warning truck drivers against double parking, an inspector should be out looking for the pitfalls in the highways and byways in which the unwary motorist may damage his car and person, and follow with a thumping suit against the city. One spot of special danger is at the corner of Prospect and Clay streets, where the street is so worn into ruts that the ridge between the ruts strikes the transmission casing and pan under the engine. A very careful driver can get around the corner without damage, but sometime a stranger to this corner will wreck his car and then will come the inevitable suit for damages.

And while we are speaking of street hazards, it might be well to call attention to the intersection of Cottage and Broad street. Each noon and evening a crowd of school children comes west on Cottage, which by the way is a fine recent job of paving, and at Broad some of the children go up West or East Broad, some out the Downieville highway and others go down Broad. There is nothing along the street to warn motorists that children at noon and at 3:30 in the afternoon, debouch from Cottage into Broad and scatter in the street for their homes. The double line across the pavement, with the well known school warning should be placed there before some child is killed by a careless, speeding motorist coming down East or West Broad or the Downieville highway.

Freight trucks discharging cargo are becoming incessant nuisances in Broad and Commercial streets. Not only do they hold up scores of motorists daily while the driver in his own good time delivers goods to the merchants, but in event of fire with traffic tied up and the street practically closed, a home could burn down while the fire truck driver was trying to untangle the traffic and get going. From this standpoint alone the city council would be warranted in ordering all trucks to park exactly as cars are compelled to do. Not only trucks double-park but every now and then some careless driver of a car halts in the middle of the street and reduces it to a one way thoroughfare anywhere from one to ten minutes. If the police chief's duties require his constant presence in the city hall, where he can neither see nor know of these blockades, then he should have an assistant on duty in the street.

In the old days when practically all the residents knew everybody in Nevada City and Grass Valley, slickers, thieves and bunko men had a tough time gaining a foothold in either city. But with big influx of new people in the last two or three years, it is inevitable that a few should prove of undesirable character. Witness the employment of a former convict in a confidential capacity in a club, and of an hotel manager's aid who turns oue to be a thief. A merchant complains that fly-by-nights have come in, paid a first deposit on articles for the household, and then vanished with the goods, from this scene. Residents and business men of Nevada City and Grass Valley must be on their guard against slickers, thieves and all-around good-for-nothings. Lend no money, sell no goods, unless character representations can be substantiated.

Richard Sofge son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Sofge, has made a most perfect airplane in his spare time while at home in Willow Valley. It is on display in the local Chamber of Commerce rooms.

Festoons Of Colored Lights To Greet Santa

Santa Claus is coming to Nevada City and when he arrives he will find it all lighted up like a Christmas tree. Strings and festoons of colored lights strung across Broad street from the theatre to the plaza with some strings for Pine street between Commercial and Spring, will give this city its first brilliant Yuletime illumination.

The Chamber of Commerce started the ball rolling Tuesday evening, when President Fred Cassidy appointed a committee consisting of Fred E. Conner, chairman, Irving Long, Ernest Schrieber and Carol Coughlan, to canvass the project among the merchants. Conner states that everywhere he went he was enthusiastically received and that the merchants have promised to chip in to make the project a reality. Christmas tree lights strung across the street at regular intervals will give this city a festive appearance and attract many visitors. Gay shop windows running over with beautiful gifts, ornaments and Christmas colors will be enhanced by the overhead galaxy of colorful lamps.

PENN VALLEY HALL BURNED TO GROUND

The Penn Valley Hall owned by the Penn Valley Farm Center on the Indian Springs road was burned to the ground late Tuesday night. It is generally believed the fire was started from a fire built by tramps near it.

The building was the center of the Penn Valley agricultural gatherings and in recent months of very popular Saturday night dances.

LIQUOR DEALERS TO SAVE MONEY ON YEARLY FEE

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 12.—Though hard liquor on sale licenses will be issued on a quarterly basis in California during 1936, George M. Stout, state liquor administrator, today called the attention of licensees to the fact they can save money by taking out permits for the full year.

Applications for renewal of licenses are due the last day of this month.

The board of equalization ruled that a 15 per cent penalty will be charged liquor license holders who do not apply for their 1936 credentials before January first.

The board also decided that if the license is not renewed by January 11th, the penalty will be 25 per cent. Liquor stores will be liable to a closing order if they have not sought a license by January 15th.

Here is a statement issued by Stout:

The board of equalization has rescinded its original order affecting the issuance of yearly licenses and has authorized the issuance of quarterly on-sale distilled spirits licenses for the year 1936.

I desire to call the attention of all applicants for this type of license to the fact that a $20 saving can be effected by taking out the license for the full year 1936, rather than split the license into four quarters, which requires the additional fee of $5 per quarter.

A saving of $20 appears to be attractive as it represents a rather high interest rate on the annual fee of $250 which applies in all counties and communities of the smaller population.

The one license for the year instead of four quarters also relieves the licensee of the necessity of making three renewal applications, which effects a substantial saving in time, expense and work in the district as well as the main offices of the board.—Sacramento Bee.

COUNCIL CALLS PUBLIC MEETING FOR TUES. NIGHT

At a meeting of the City Council last evening Mr. George C. Seldon, architect of Sacramento, submitted several plans for the new city hall. Several minor changes were suggested and Mr. Seldon was instructed to prepare a plan. This blue print or plan will arrive in this city either today or tomorrow to be placed in a public place for the public to view. As planned the building will house the Chamber of Commerce, fire trucks, jail, corridors for fire trucks and fire department.

Attorney Frank Finnegan appeared with his client, Anrea Depaoli, of Stockton, who has submitted a proposal for garbage disposal. After some discussion the council decided to hold a public meeting next Tuesday evening, December 17 to permit the citizens an opportunity to discuss the proposed ordinance. City Attorney W. E. Wright stated that this is a very important question and every house holder should attend the meeting if possible. The application is for exclusive rights to handle the garbage. If granted, house holders using the service will be compelled to have a 20 gallon covered garbage can and pay 50 cents per month for the service. An ordinance permitting such a contract would also permit individual persons the right to dispose of their own garbage.

The city airport came in for discussion and it was stated City Engineer Ed C. Uren had sent a message saying he would have a description of all the properties on the airport ready within the next two or three days in order that the city might start clearing titles.

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Rector of this city that their son, William Rector, who is attending McGill Medical College in Montreal, Canada, will be home for the Christmas holiday season. He is coming home by way of the beautiful route of the Canadian-Pacific.

After an absence of several months Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ewing have moved to their home on the Tahoe-Ukiah highway.

Marysville Saturday.

Jack X. Brandsettter of Sacramento was in town on business Tuesday.

ACCUSER AND ACCUSED IN JAIL TOGETHER

W. W. Withrow, who swore to the complaint of grand theft against H. B. Morse, manager of the Consolidated Metals Co., occupied the county jail along witn Morse from December 5 to 8. Morse was jailed when it was proved that he had failed to pay Withrow $180 under circumstances that legally constituted theft.

Withrow, who lived in Selby Flat, was picked up by Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen on a charge of petit theft on warrant from Riverside. A deputy sheriff from the latter city took Withrow south Monday.

Thus it was that accused and accuser came to occupy the same granite hotel and partake of the same county hospitality. The atmosphere at the pail was said to be electric, but nothing happened of untoward character. Socially speaking, however, grand theft takes precedence over petit theft. Whether these amenities were observed or not in jail, the deputy sheriffs failed to report.

BIDS ON HIGH SCHOOL ANNEX TO BE OPENED

The school board will meet at the Nevada City high school 5 p. m. this afternoon for the opening of bids on the construction of the new school additions. Construction work, as announced later, should begin as soon as a bid has been accepted.

FOREST SERVICE IS TAKING A DEER CENSUS

For several years it has been claimed that the deer population is decreasing and a survey is being carried on at this time by the Fish and Game Department of the National Forests. The quail and predatory animals are also being checked and survey of their winter range studied.

Mr. Leland Smith, head of the grazing department of the Tahoe National Forest, has two crews of 40 CCC boys at work at this time taking a deer census. A check is made on how much food they consume, where the animals are forced to stay during different periods of the winter, and range conditions.

So far the work has been carried on in the state ranges and the work will progress to the National Forest in the near future. The boys work in groups, some making drives down ridges with observers posted at the mouth of canyons to count the bucks, does and fawns, and their condition.

It is the claim of many miners and snipers higher up in the mountains, in snow covered areas, that when the snow melts in springtime deer are found starved to death or killed by wild animals. A study is to be made of these areas later on, when sufficient snow has fallen.

Farmers Opposed To Unicameral System

(By RALPH H. TAYLOR)

Some sage philosopher of things political once remarked that governmental reforms are often more dangerous than the evils they seek to correct!

Quite probably, the philosopher was bilious, or at least unduly cynical, at the time of his epigrammatic outburst, but the fact remains that his statement is all too true in many instances.

The present agitation for a One-House Legislature in California—the so-called unicameral system—is a striking case in point.

Undoubtedly well-intentioned and honestly proposed, the unicameral plan is nonetheless ten times more dangerous to the welfare of California government and California citizens than any of the governmental evils which it seeks to eliminate.

To rural and agricultural California, in particular, it would mean absolute surrender to the domination of the cities in all state legislation. And such a surrender, in the final analysis, would be as disastrous to city residents as to the farmer.

CITIES VS. RURAL AREAS

Rural California's voice in the present legislative set-up is the result of a determined campaign some years ago by the California Farm Bureau Federation, the Agricultural Council of California, the California Farmers' Union, and other farm groups, culminating in the enactment of the so-called "federal plan" of legislative representation.

Under the "federal plan," the Assembly districts are apportioned solely on a population basis, with the result that Los Angeles, San Francisco and Alameda counties control 46 of the 80 Assembly votes, with the remaining 34 votes scattered among the other 55 counties.

Senate districts, under the present plan, however, are apportioned on a basis of both population and territory, with the members from rural areas in the majority.

The net result is a "balance of power" between the two houses—one urban controlled and the other predominantly rural—which has compelled the cities to recognize the rights of the country districts, and the farm areas to deal fairly with the cities. Although far from perfect, the present set-up has at least required a policy of "live and let live" which has prevented flagrant discrimination against any group or area.

NEBRASKA'S CASE

The so-called unicameral legislative system may be adaptable to some states, where city-rural lines are not so sharply drawn. In Nebraska, for example—the only state which has adopted the plan—rural areas would dominate any legislative set-up, whether based on territory or population. But in California, the situation is radically different.

Population is the sole basis of representation under the on-house-plan. And in California, three metropolitan counties—Los Angeles, San Francisco and Alameda—represent a population of 3,317,000, or nearly 500,000 more than one-half of the state total. In other words, as Senator Charles H. Deuel of Chico, one of the state's ablest rural legislators, already has pointed out, the one-house legislature would be a "city legislature," with the country districts tagging along as the tail to the kite. There can be no escape from that conclusion.

TAX DISCRIMINATION FEARED

An urban-dominated legislature might mean gross tax discrimination; it might mean that the bulk of the tax burden would be passed back to the country districts, either by an ad valorem levy, a transactions tax, or some other measure which would fall most heavily on the man least able to pay; it might mean control of the state harbor at San Francisco by San Francisco politicians; it might mean the break down of every protection the farmer has built up against trespass; it might mean certain defeat for legislation of vital importance to farm security and farm recovery.

And regardless of all else, it would definitely mean that the farmer and the rural Californian must come into the legislature as a suppliant—begging for consideration and with no power to demand it. Rural California can not afford that experiment. And for the same reason, it can not afford to countenance the one-house legislature, regardless of any bait or any inducements.

STEEL ENGRAVINGS ARE GIVEN TO HIGH SCHOOL

Nine large steel engravings of Roman and Grecian architecture have been received by the local high school as gifts from Miss Ransom, head of the Ransom School for Girls in Berkeley. With the closing of this Berkeley school, Miss Ransom wished to place these engravings in the hands of some appreciative high school principal. Having been acquainted with Miss Baggley, commercail department head at the local high, she made her generous offer to the Nevada City high school.

The engravings have been placed about the hall and in the rooms at the high school building. They are felt to be a valuable addition to the art exhibits of the school.

GRACEY MINE

Mr. L. A. Armstrong, mining engineer of Nevada City, is in charge of sinking operations at the Gracey-Glencoe mine southeast of Nevada City. Sinking of the planned 150 feet, started a few days ago, and about 55 feet have been completed, the work progressing rapidly. The shaft is down 400 feet with 100 feet to go. Another shift was added a few days ago and places the mine on three shifts for the 24 hour day. L. W. Cheney is superintendent.

'SUNSET' GARDEN EDITOR VISITS LOCAL GARDENS

Mr. Norvell Gillespie, garden editor of Sunset Magadine, spent yesterday at the Gillett Nursey with Mr. C. E. Parsons. Mr. Gillespie came from San Francisco to obtain advice from Mr. Parsons relative to the shrubs and plants of this section.

Mr. Gillespie stated that most of the space allotted to the garden section in Sunset has pertained to the gardens of the valleys and the bay region and that it is his desire to be informed concerning the growth of the inland and higher sections of California so that he can publish articles of interest to the residents there. He had a great many questions to ask, relative to the habits of shrubs and flowers that grow here and made a study of many of the plants at the Gillett Nursery. Mr. Parsons took him to see some of the local gardens, among them the G. J. Rector, Wade Armstrong, Gove Celio and R. J. Bennetts gardens. Though the gardens here are not in the "show" condition at this time of year Mr. Gillespie could visualize them as they would be in the spring and summer.

Protect Our Highways

Almost the one remaining thing in California that the people can still call their very own is this state's magnificent network of highways—those wide, smooth ribbons of concrete—built, owned, and maintained by and for the public.

Is it any wonder, then, that today Californians are beginning to object to the way these publicly-owned thoroughfares are being turned over to privately-owned transportation companies to use for their own personal profit?

It would not seem so. It would seem, in fact, that Californians were not the rugged, progressive people they have a reputation for being, if they did not fight to keep what is definitely their own.

No one is asking that adequate highway transportation facilities be curtailed. The movement now sweeping the state is to prevent only the alarming increase of trucks and truck lines, of busses and bus lines that are today seeking to establish parallel and duplicating services.—The Carmel Pine Cone.

TRAFFIC DEAD IN 3 YEARS, 7,574; WAR DEAD, 6,650

California motorists and pedestrians, "killed in action" in traffic crashes of the past three years—7,574!

Drawing that startling parallel, Mrs. C. H. Turner of Los Angeles, president of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, today characterized the reckless slaughter on the state's streets and highway as "worse than war," and pledged the vigorous support of the parent-teacher organization to the statewide crusade to reduce traffic fatalities.

"The members of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, Inc., are gravely concerned over the alarming number of motor vehicle accidents resulting in death and injury to the children and young people of our state," said Mrs. Turner.

"At our last state board meeting we passed a resolution urging World Peace and deploring war. Seriously as we regard the menace of war, a time in which nations deliberately make a business of killing—we are appalled to learn that in California during the past three years, we have killed more people on our streets and highways than were killed in the World War from this state."

Turning her attention to the solution of the problem, Mrs. Turner set forth the views of her organization as follows:

"We believe the remedy lies in continuous and intensive safety education for all ages, and in an aroused public sentiment, which will surely result in a demand for adequate laws to regulate the increasing number of heavy commercial vehicles on our highways, provide reasonable safety for careful drivers, and adequate penalties, consistently applied, for all violations of the Motor Vehicle Code, especially those relating to drunken or reckless driving.

"The California Safety Council is undertaking such a program and it is to be hoped that all those interested in saving the lives of our children and youth will work together toward the promotion of this plan."

NEWTRUCK LAW TO BE ENFORCED

The recent activity of the Transportation Department of the Railroad Commission of California, in putting into effect the regulation of motor carriers on the highways of the state, has created unusual interest in the transportation world. In discussing this regulation, as brought about in the enactment of the Highway and City Carriers Acts which is so important to the shippers of the state, Warren K. Brown, Director of Transportation of the Commission, said:

"With the greatest part of the organization work of the Commission behind us we are now initiating the most important preliminary action under the new laws, as it refers to the compulsory filing of applications by truck owners for permits to operate on the high-ways of California for compensation, by sending our corps of experienced inspectors out in the field as a final check-up, and aid to the operators who have not filed.

"At the very beginning of the Commission's organization in sending out fourteen thousand application blanks to truck owners, with instructions on how to file, in order that they get their permits to operate, it was apparent, with the thousands of letters and 'phone calls pouring in, and personal calls from operators that a great many of the truckmen did not fully understand the questions submitted. This situation, which necessitated a most rigid inspection of every application and insurance policy attached, required no end of time and detail.

"In the meantime sending out permits to operators whose applications were checked "OK", and as many cab-cards and plates necessary for each truck owned by the operators, we found there were still some who had not sent in their applications. These either did not receive applications or were waiting for insurance coverage; the majority evidently did not know the classification they would come under.

"Consequently, with both the Los Angeles and San Francisco offices of the Commission fairly swamped, we arranged meetings with the truck owners in various localities. And, through the courtesy and fine cooperation of the Chambers of Commerce, truck owners associations, municipalities and newspapers representatives of the Commission met with and aided the truckmen to file their applications for a permit. And now as a final preliminary move the Commission has its full force of inspectors in the field to compel all truck operators to comply with the law".

SCOUT WINTER CAMP TO OPEN DECEMBER 31

Scout winter camp starting December 31st for five days is just around the corner and preliminary estimates look as though it will be a capacity camp. Marin County scouts who have shared winter camp with us for the last five years have asked for permission to bring forty.

Additional skis have been purchased. Ski poles will be added in accordance with the policy to gradually build up a sufficient supply of both. The cords of wood have been cut and stored under shelter for use at the various winter camps. Only three week-ends are open for use to the end of March unless some of the troops will double up.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Lane of this city are moving into their nice new stucco and plaster finish home on upper Boulder street the latter part of this week.

SHERIFF SEEKS TWO ACCUSED OF BURGLARY, THEFT

Charged with robbing T. A. Tobiassen, deputy sheriff and brother of Sheriff Carl Tobiassen, and burglarizing the Elks club where he was employed as janitor, James Hubner, who disappeared Monday, and is now the object of an intense search on the part of the sheriff.

Hubner is accused of stealing $30 cash belonging to the Elks bowling teams and $25 belonging to "Toby" Tobiassen, caretaker of the Elks home. He was traced to Sacramento by the sheriff and his brother, where it was learned he had arrived by car with James Orwig. The latter was arrested and brought back to the county jail where he is held on an open charge. From the State Criminal Investigation Bureau, the Tobiassens learned that Huber is a former convict and served a sentence in Washington state prison.

And—while an intensive trailing of Hubner is in progress another search is going on simultaneously for Clifford "Cliff" Cundy, assistant manager of Bret Harte Inn for several months. He is wanted to answer a grand theft charge in connection with the disappearance of $200 from the Inn safe and other missing cash which may total $600 when a tally has been completed. Cundy disappeared Monday night with most of his personal effects.

I suffered from blood and stomach trouble for years. I also had pains in my kidneys. I suffered so terrible that I could not do any work at all. Upon the advice of my friend, I decided to give Yee & Yee, the Chinese Herb Specialist, a trial. After taking his herbs for a few weeks, my troubles all disappeared, and I am feeling fine now.

LEASING OPERATIONS HALTED BY FIRE WED.

Lease mining operations of five men working on the Merrifield claim of the Dr. C. P. Jones Champion group near Nevada City were stopped Wednesday because of a fire which burned the blacksmith shop, compressor, tools and other equipment.

Five men, among whom were Fred Roehnert and Richard Bernard of Grass Valley were interested in the leasing operations.

A combinatoin of carbide lamp flame and gasoline caused the fire. The fire loss is estimated at $2500 without insurance coverage.

The leasers will continue their operations in spite of the loss.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Taxes and Speed

While we go on, in response to the popular demand, producing cars capable of traveling 90 miles an hour over highways where traffic laws call for a legal limit of 45 or less, and selling those cars to anybody who has a residence address and a first down payment, there doesn't appear to be anything to do except pray and carry a card in the hat telling where remains are to be sent, also giving name and number of favorite hymn. As for taxes, they're like cockleburrs—very easy to pick up and almost impossible to get rid of, once you're stuck with them. And as for what the average citizen thinks of the legislators who gaily hang these ruinous burdens on us so that politicians may have more of somebody else's money to spend—well, you couldn't print that in a paper going through the United States mails.

Leisure of the Literati

SOCIAL note: Went to party. Among those present, the Fredric Marches, the Bud Leightons, the Johnnie Robinsons, Gloria Swanson, Hugh Walpole, Herbert Marshall, Constance Collier, Frank Lloyd. To be an evening devoted to intellectual discussion of literature, drama, the higher arts.

So all night we played a foolish game called "Who Am I?" When the game was called on account of sunrise, I was "it." I still am. In other words, while I have rough ideas what I may be—you ought to see some of the letters I get—it remains a deep mystery as to who I am, if at all.

I'd rather somebody else gave these big buffet suppers. Being host, you can't go home when you're bored, and, besides, along toward the end of the second week after the shindig, you do get so tired of aspic jelly for breakfast.

An Unsung Genius

HAVE you ever read the novel "Anthony Adverse," or even held the book on your lap until your knees went to sleep?

Some quit and went back to business after the fifth month. Others gave up everything else for the year and fought the good fight right through to the end. After that, they were ready to tackle something light and chaffy, such as the last six volumes of the encyclopedia.

Anyhow, if you were not included among those who bought this work or borrowed it—and that would put you in the minority, for it has sold close to a million copies—the above should give you a rough idea, so that you may share with me in this tribute to an authentic genius.

I've just met him. He's the director who has the job of putting "Anthony Adverse" into eight reels of moving picture film. Alongside of him, I contend, the fellow who engraved the Lord's Prayer on the head of a pin was just a piker.

The Ten Greatest Pests

I DON'T know when I've been so stirred up—just panting like a lizard on a hot rock. Every day, seems like, I read that a jury of experts has solemnly selected the ten best-groomed men. (Only horses had grooms when daddy was a boy.) Or the ten best-dressed women. Or the ten hottest hostesses, or the ten most ideally married couples; Hollywood entries barred for gouging in the clinches.

Now I hear they're picking the ten most prominent debutantes that our leading movie idol is likely to be snuck up on by. I can hardly wait. When the really vital competitions are closed, would it be asking too much of the judges to name, say, the ten human beings who contributed most to the world's betterment this past year? Or how about a better committee in each town to choose the ten worthiest cases for Christmas relief?

No, on second thought, I guess not. In such lists as these there's practically no sex appeal. Still Lincoln's Gettysburg address was sort of shy on sex appeal, too, wasn't it?

The League Elevator.

WITH Ethiopia convulsed by war, with Brazil having internal spasms and China crumbling under armed pressure from within and without, that faint squeaking sound coming out of Geneva, Switzerland, would seem to betoken continued plaintive protests on the part of the only great world movement which quit functioning before it ever began.

Mr. Interlocutor, why is the League of Nations like the elevator in the average small European hotel?

Well, Brother Bones, I really can't imagine why the League of Nations should resemble an elevator in a European hotel. Suppose you tell us.

Because, before they've even got it finished, the proprietor has little framed cards ready to be stuck up on every floor announcing that this elevator is out of order.

CASH DONATIONS FOR COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS TREE

The date for the public Christmas tree program has been set at December 18 instead of December 20 as at first planned. December 20 is the date of school closing for the Christmas holidays so the Christmas tree program at Native Daughters park on Broad street will be on December 18.

The Civic Club is sponsoring the tree and making all arrangements. The school children will bring their white wrapped gifts and present them at the program. It seems as though the school children who furnish the program and offer gifts to the less fortunate should not be without some little remembrance from the people. Cash donations will be greatly appreciated and may be left at the office of the Morning Union or the Nevada City Nugget. If there is enough for the expeness and some over the school children will be presented with a bag of candy by Santa Claus after their program.

Already the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce and Laurel Parlor Native Daughters have each donated $5. A kind lady who wishes her name withheld has sent five dollars to the Nugget office to be turned over to the Christmas tree committee. Who will be next? Should there be more donations than the amount needed for the Christmas tree expenses the surplus will be used in conjunction with the Benevolent Society in helping the needy have a good Christmas.

SEARCH WARRANT IS ISSUED TO J. L.MC LEAN

CAMPTONVILLE, Dec. 12.—A search warrant was issued in the local justice court Saturday morning to J. L. McLean, of San Bruno, to search for property he alleged Frank Burris took from his ranch.

Several months ago Burris sold out his ranch in the Mill Creek section to McLean. The new owner is a deputy sheriff at San Bruno, and is at his ranch property here only occasionally. A short time ago Burris removed a truck load of personal property from the ranch, some of which property McLean claimed went with the sale of the ranch. Constable John Jaynes made the search with both parties, and the property which McLean claimed was his was returned to him.

Upon request of the complaintant, Judge Acton M. Cleveland dismissed the case.

Mr. R. C. Berggren local jeweler, spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Alleghany on business.

RARE FIND MADE OF GREAT BISON HEAD IN SHASTA

BERKELEY, Dec. 12.—The fossil head and horns of what is believed to be the world's largest bison and what imaginative woodsmen say is the fabled "Blue Ox" of the Paul Bunyan legends, have been assembled and hung in the museum of paleontology at the University of California. The great skull, which has a spread of thirteen feet along the horn and head curvature, was found upside down in a sand pit in the Fall River Valley, Shasta County, on Christmas Day, 1933, by Burnett Day, a rancher of MacArthur in the same county.

The find proved a sensation. Schools were closed so that children might view the specimen. The lumbermen, who assisted the Universtiy scientists in liberating the specimen from the pit were sure it was the Bunyan "Blue Ox" but the University men, headed by V. L. VanderHoof, decided from all available data, it was merely the biggest and heaviest bison that ever roamed the earth. They also determined that it did its roaming about in the Pliocene age, between 50,000 and 100,000 years ago, and estimated its weight at about 3,000 pounds.

One notable feature of the bison, also recovered, was the high hump bone, about two and one half feet long. Later there were found at Mt. Diablo some fossil teeth and lower jaws that fit the Fall River skull closely, but the University scientists are convinced that they are the remains of another bison.

The skull specimen was so big that VanderHoof was compelled to remove the horns before he could get the whole specimen in his automobile. It was brought to Berkeley and prepared for mounting and study.

The Paul Bunyan legend, revived by the find of the great skull, concerned a Gulliver-like character who roamed the north woods, pushing over mountains at will, breaking up great trees like so many matches and performing other prodigious deeds. The "Blue Ox" was this hard-worked beast of burden.

So long and involved were the study and work on the specimen that its assembly and mouting have just been completed.

DRIVE-IN MARKET IS ALMOST COMPLETED

The Drive-in Market of Mr. George E. Krouse at the southern Nevada City limits is rapidly nearing completion giving this city another business house and three apartments. The new building is a splendid addition to this rapidly growing city.

Work on the new service station, across the street, has been delayed a few days owing to breaking of an unknown water main in evcavation operations. Contractor George Bobst is making good progress and forms for a portion of the new building are being built.

The new building being built by Mr. J .Rude on upper Boulder street is rapidly nearing completion. Farther on two new buildings completed in recent weeks by Mr. and Mrs. Ted Janiss, not far from the Murchie mine, are attractive and modern, giving this city four new apartments and garages.

EXECUTIVIE MEETING OF SCOUT COUNCIL DEC. 18

The last executive board meeting of the Tahoe area scout council for the year 1935, will be held Wednesday, December 18th at the Bank of America at Auburn at 8 o'clock, to approve the application for the renewal of the council charter for the coming year and to approve the program for the annual meeting of the council which will be held the latter part of January. The nominating committee composed of the chairman of each community, had been appointed and will meet to select council officers for the coming year. Other matters such as the location of additional troops in unoccupied territory will be discussed. Each community is planning to be represented.

Mr. Gus Orzalli, who has been ill in the Jones Memorial hospital for about a week, is making a good recovery and expects to return home in a few days.

CARAVAN CAR SUITS

Ray Ingels, state motor vehicle director, today said that very few caravan automobiles will escape the payment of the new state tax of $15 if the law now being tested in the Federal courts, is upheld.

Earlier in the week, Russell Bevans, assistant director, said approximately one half of the 4,000 automobiles caravaned into California had evaded the payment of the tax by being driven into the state over little used roads.

Mr. Charles McKinney of Nevada City is quite ill at his home in this city.

CALIF. YOUNG REPUBLICANS MAP CAMPAIGN

STOCKTON, Dec. 12.—Smashing at the quack theories of the Roosevelt administration the Young Republicans of California, gathered here in convention from all parts of California, Saturday and Sunday, resolved "that the welfare of the United States and the American people depends upon plowing under every third governmental job and the taxes incurred thereof."

The Stockton meeting, headed by James H. Phillips, president of the organization and attended by 125 delegates from all counties of the state, was called to determine the principles of the organization and the part it will play in the coming national campaign. Preliminary arrangements were also made for the Young Republican Convention to be held in San Jose late in March at which time the Young Republicans will be the first to convene in the new San Jose auditorium now being built with money contributed by the Democratic administration.

PRINCIPLES ENUNCIATED

The following principles were approved by the delegates:

"The Young Republicans of California believe that our ideals have been temporarily thwarted. A revival of individual and Constitutional right, of individual enterprise and initiative, of all forms of private enterprise, has lately been and is being prevented by a persistent departure from the proved principles of social and economic organization on which American progress, prosperity and civilization have been built. The Constitution has been relegated to a position unworthy of that noble and inspired document.

A staggering national deficit even now looms before us—an indebtedness which must be liquidated by us in the tomorrow.

"We pledge ourselves to advocate

"1. The proper recognition of and adherence to our United States Constitution, and the maintenance and preservation of all rights therein guaranteed.

"2. The preservation of the American System of government given to us by our Constitution, any changes therein or departures therefrom to be made only when necessary to meet new conditions and then by the orderly process of amendment and not by un-constitutional legislation.

"3. The encouragement and protection of individual enterprise and initiative.

HALT REGULATION

"4. The cessation of undue governmental regulation of the agricultural, social and industrial life of our nation.

"5. The reduction of our national governmental expenditures, debt, taxes, the balancing of the budget, and the limiting of governmental projects to essential governmental services with emphasis on economy and efficiency.

"6. The re-establishment of a permanently stabilized currency, and the prevention of inflation in whatever form.

"7. The re-employment of the idle by private business.

"8. The supplementing of private relief by public relief only as long as the national emeregency requires, and to be administered free from political control.

"9. The accomplishment of sound social welfare which recognizes the obligation to support the aged and infirm and guards against the privations of involuntary prolonged unemployment.

"10. The protection of the farmers' income under a sound agricultural program.

"11. The removal of all barriers to international trade not essential to the protection of American living standards and the encouragement in the increase of exports.

"12. The avoidance of war and international difficulties.

ABANDON SCARCITY THEORY

"We join in the general demand for the abandonment of the philosophy of "scarcity"—that prosperity can be produced through curtailing agricultural and industrial production, and urge the unlimited production of the things that enrich the lives of all."

"It is found by investigation that there are a great many individuals who are engaged in subversive (Communistic) activities which are disloyal to the government of the United States; many of these people are now employed or supported by federal agencies in this country. Be it hereby resolved that we favor the administration of an oath of allegiance to the Constitution of the United States and to the American flag by every person employed or supported by federal funds. The unwillingness to do so indicates disloyalty to the United States government and shall be grounds for the immediate termination of his or her employment or support by the federal government."

U. C. WOMEN STUDENTS SCHOLARSHIP REPORT

BERKELEY, Dec. 11.—The scholarship standing of women students of the University of California living in boarding houses approved by the University and those living in sororities and clubs is vertually the same, it has been established by a study made by Mrs. M. B. Davidson, associate dean of women. The study included fifteen boarding houses and thirty one sororities and clubs.

Organization of the student personnel and the appointment of a scholarship chairman in each of the boarding houses has had a material effect in assisting the students in making of higher scholarship marks. Mrs. Davidson pointed out. The difference in the general scholarship standing between the boarding houses and the sororities and clubs is now so slight as to be negligible, she said.

Of 5.099 women students registered on the Berkeley campus, 12.07 per cent live in the approved boarding houses and 10.45 per cent in the sororities and clubs. The remainder live at home, with friends and relatives, at places of employment, and elsewhere. Every place of residence is checked insofar as possible by the University and in places that cannot be reached by the university authorities, the parents or guardians are asked to take full responsibility.

The percentage of women students who attend church is particularly high, Mrs. Davidson said. Likewise the much publicized new freedom of youth, which is supposed to be expressed in part through promiscuous cigarette smoking and other departures from former standards on the part of women, does not appear to be having the slightest effect on the capacity of women students to study and to learn, insofar as university records are concerned.

YOUTH IN LOVE IS THEME OF "BAD BOY"

"Bad Boy", the Fox picture written by Vina Delmar, at the Nevada Theatre tonight provides James Dunn with the most brilliant role in his motion picture career, which had its inception with another Delmar story, "Bad Girl," four years ago.

In this colorful tale of the boy's side of young love's struggle for happiness, Dunn is the flippantly-gay, bantering, but fundamentally lovable young man who faces life with a grin and a wise-crack.

Side by side with Dunn in his quest for a place in the world is Dorothy Wilson, typifying the eternal feminine, who is willing to sacrifice comfort and ease for the man she loves.

In the supporting cast, giving clear-cut characterizations to a fast-moving story, are Louise Fazenda, as Dunn's sympathetic landlady; Beulah Bondi and John Wray, parents of Miss Wilson who object to their daughter keeping company with the man she loves, and Victor Kilian, Luis Alberni, and Allen Vincent as Dunn's rival.

"Bad Boy" is a down to earth story of Dunn's efforts to find a respectable job so that his secret marriage to Dorothy might be revealed to her parents.

They had objected to him as a suitor for their daughter's hand when they had learned that he was a frequenter of pool rooms, making a precarious living with his adeptness at the game.

The climax to the story comes when Dunn, becoming discouraged and failing to convince Dorothy that he is just a "bad boy" and that she would do better to leave him for the man whom her mother is trying to convince her to marry, decides to run away from her for her own good.

From then on the story moves at a breath taking rate to a satisfactory conclusion for the two young lovers.

OPTICAL ILLUSION BRINGS OUT FIREMEN

A false fire alarm was inadvertently turned in from the J. P. Muscardini home on Sacramento street yesterday at about noon, and brought prompt response from the Nevada City fire department. Just before the firemen arrived it was discovered the cloud of vapor from the roof as the warm sunshine shone on it combined with a fire in the crimney, gave the impression the whole roof was afire. Members of the family upon discovering the error called the fire department but the firemen had arrived on the scene.

CHRISTMAS TREE FOR WASHINGTON SCHOOL

The Dramatics Club of Washington Grammar School composed of the Seventh and Eighth grade pupils under their instructor, Miss Lois Shaw, are preparing for a Christmas tree and party Tuesday evening. Plans are being made for a delightful time of fun and merriment, each one present receiving a tiny gift from the beautifully decorated tree.

BEAUTIFUL XMAS TREE ERECTED FOR CIVIC CLUB

The local force of the P. G. & E. Company placed guide lines and erected the beautiful silver tip tree in the Native Daughters park yesterday afternoon for the Womans Civic Club Christmas tree. Mr. Harry Davey installed a switch to connect with the lights when the strings of many colored lights, ornaments and tinsel are placed on it.

SEEKS PROBATION

A. W. McGagin, county probation officer will report to the court on December 16th in the case of H. B. Morse who has asked for probation. Morse plead guilty in the superior court to the charge of violating the state wage law.

The Thing I Dread

I'm not afraid of hold up men,
So, should I meet with one,
I'd hand my fifteen cents to him
And say, "put up that gun;"
I have no fear of buccaneers
Who comb the seven seas,
I live securely in the hills
Among the rocks and trees.

I'm not dismayed by bandits now,
Or gangsters on parade,
Of gangsters' molls, red heads and blonds,
I've never been afraid;
Of cannibals I have no dread—
I don't go where they are;
Their kettles and their kettle drums
I vision from afar.

I'm not alarmed when hunters come,
Thougt sometimes, so I've read,
Mistaking friends for antlered deer,
They shoot a human dead;
But I stay in when they are out
And wear a scarlet hat,
A sportsman stalking five point bucks
Would scarcely aim at that.

But when the neighbor's wild eyed child
Comes rushing out at me,
To wave a toy and yell, "I'll shoot!"
In abject fright I flee;
Of course the toy may be of wood,
The child's crude threat, "mere fun,"
But it may be that deadly thing,
The old "Unloaded Gun."

—A. MERRIAM CONNER.

The bazaar and dinner held by the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church Wednesday evening was considered quite a success. Nearly all articles of fancy work were sold. the candy booth was well patronized and the fish pond proved most popular. This is the first affair of this kind held in some time and the ladies are well satisfied with returns. Many tinsel covered fir trees formed the center pieces for the attractively arranged tables. Thru the Knot Hole

A Glimpse of Building Activity

VOL. 1. DECEMBER 13, 1935. No. 36.

One of our good customers had all of the doors and windows weather-stripped with New-Way Strip during the week. This means added comfort at no cost as the fuel saving will take care of the installation.

A new lot of vertical grain redwood shingles just put into stock. If these rains are getting through the roof, investigate wood shingles. May be applied over old roofs.

Special millwork is always a problem but our organization has had experience and can assist you in making suggestions as to correct installation.

Two dwellings just up Red Dog Road from our lumber yard are nearly completed. Contractor Ralph Cochrane is finishing one for Mr. and Mrs. Dick Kane and Contractor Julius Rude is constructing one for himself. Both are modern dwellings and a fine addition to this district.

NONE OF THAT

The tiresome young lawyer was wearing out both the court and jury with the length of his tedious haranque to the jury. Finally he said to the judge.

"Your Honor is it your pleasure that I proceed with my argument?"

Whereat the honest judge said: —"Young man the pleasure of listening to you ended an hour ago; but you may proceed."
